

Time to Integrate

From Knowing to Living

A private ceremonial somatic energy medicine experience where the insights and breakthroughs you've accumulated are reactivated, what stands between knowing and living is cleared, and what you've always known you're truly capable of becomes the life you actually live.

Founding Investment: €333

Available for the first 3 experiences only. You receive the full depth of the work at the founding rate in exchange for feedback, review, and co-creative presence as Time to Integrate takes form.

Future investment: €555+

It keeps Coming Back

"Time to integrate."

We hear it everywhere we go at every transformational event and even the not so transformational ones. Like a good old song that keeps repeating in our minds, never really knowing what to do with it. We all know that somehow it deeply matters that all the insights and breakthroughs lose their meaning if we don't integrate and embody them. And yet we have never quite received an answer to the most obvious question: what does that actually mean? How do we even integrate?

So we do what we know. We reflect, some do embodiment practices, others journal, breathwork to reconnect to the clarity, a few dip their toes into therapy, and as a last resort another ceremony. We show up for all of it, again and again, courageously moving through and confronting different aspects of our being having beautiful realisations and breakthroughs, arriving at deeper knowing of who we are, what we're here for, and how to move forward in alignment with what matters most, so much potential revealing itself, ready to move through.

And yet when we look at our actual lives, we realise that the passion project that once felt so alive and clear now sits untouched, floating as a half-expressed potential, waiting for the moment that never quite arrives. The direction blurs the moment life picks back up. The breakthrough fades into the background of the same patterns, the same hesitations, the same familiar pull away from what we know we are here to do.

After a dozen unfinished projects and moments of almost, we start to doubt whether we can live up to our potential. And even worse, we begin to question if any of it is even real or if we are just delusional and it only exists in those moments of expansion.

And still beneath all of it something keeps returning. That same pull. That same knowing. Too consistent to ignore. Too alive to dismiss.

Maybe the question was never whether it was real.

Maybe the question was always why it hasn't landed yet.

The Missing Piece

That knowing of what you are truly capable of that is your essence coming through. The deepest and most true part of you that knows exactly what you are here to create and how to bring it to life. It was and is always there, trying to guide you.

"Like a seed that already carries the blueprint of the tree it will become it does not need to figure out how to grow. It simply needs the right conditions for what is already inside it to express itself fully."

What has kept it from fully coming through are the limiting patterns. Showing up as the fears that surface the moment you sit down to work on what matters most. The patterns that have you second guessing every intuitive decision. The deep rooted beliefs that push you out of alignment right when you are closest to breaking through.

Remove those and your essence moves through freely. What you've been sensing becomes what you're living. That is what integration is about. And that is what Time to Integrate is here to bring.

So your longings can belong in your everyday lived experience — with your passion projects being birthed into life with a deep sense of ease and certainty — because finally we have arrived at that sweet spot where our contractions are transformed into expressions of life just flowing through. Full surrender to the knowing within, guiding us throughout.

Why This Works So Deeply

Everything you've tried has moved something. And still, the limiting patterns return. That is because most modalities work with what is on the surface the thoughts, the emotions, the behaviours. This work goes to where they originate.

The limiting patterns that express themselves as fears, self-sabotage, and the constant pull away from what you know you're here to do have their first expression in the energetic field, long before they become a feeling, a thought, or an action. Their origin reaches far beyond what you are consciously aware of accumulated across lifetimes, through the lineage, and beyond. Silent contracts made in another time and under other circumstances, still quietly governing the choices you make today.

This is where energy medicine works most powerfully. It traces the pattern back to where it began the original experience that shaped how you see yourself, what you believe is possible, and how far you allow yourself to go and clears it at the root. Through soul retrieval, extraction, illumination, and cord cutting, we retrieve what was lost, remove what doesn't belong, cut what no longer needs to bind, illuminate what has been living in the dark, and seed your essence back into every cell of your being. Deep intuitive bodywork supports and integrates what shifts energetically, working with the fascia to release what has been stuck, allowing a full reset of the nervous system so the clearing can land and be held by the body.

Within ceremonial space, held by Santa Maria, all of this goes deeper and reaches further. She opens what is ready to move and amplifies what is ready to be cleared reaching in a day and a half what might otherwise take months.

What Is Time to Integrate?

Time to Integrate is the missing piece between knowing and living a-day-and-a-half immersed in nature, away from the noise, the roles, and the demands of everyday life, dedicated entirely to you and what is ready to finally move through you and into your life.

You arrive the evening before and are welcomed onto a beautiful piece of land surrounded by nature. The ceremonial space is held beneath an ancient tree. A comfortable caravan is yours to rest and sleep in. Nourishing meals aligned to the experience are prepared for you. Everything is taken care of so from the moment you arrive, your only focus is being.

The following morning, we open the space and move through the full arc of the experience together, supported by Santa Maria, Cacao, and Rapé, held in sacred space, with the land as your foundation throughout. You stay the night. And the morning after is held for final integration grounding what has shifted, clarifying what is calling you forward, before you step back into daily life.

→ Apply for your Alignment Call

The Journey

Within the ceremonial space we move through a living, co-creative process that follows what your system needs.

Opening & Arrival

We open sacred space together. The medicine is received. The nervous system settles into the land and into the container. The field opens — guided by your intentions and desires, held throughout by the space.

Reading the Field

Through shamanic diagnostic tools and direct access to the field, I locate the recurring pattern and trace it to its origin — together we find the doorway into what is ready to move.

Imprint Clearing

The heart of the experience. Deep intuitive bodywork moves through the entire physical body releasing what has been held in the fascia and resetting the nervous system so the energetic clearing can land fully in the body. Simultaneously through energy medicine the imprint is traced to its root and removed your essence reseeded into every cell of your being. The deeper you surrender into the process the more completely what is ready to move can move through you.

Reclamation

As the clearing completes energy returns. Through specific practices you learn to access your essence directly — to feel it moving through you, to express it, and to recognise what it means to act from it. You leave this phase with a living felt connection to the deepest part of who you are.

Embodiment & Integration

We close with fire ceremony and embodiment practices. What has been cleared will be acknowledged and released. What has been reclaimed will be embodied and expressed. From that space we align your next steps so your the direction becomes clear, the vision feels reachable, and you leave knowing how to take the next aligned step with consistency and absolute trust.

What Becomes Possible

After this experience you will feel spacious yet deeply rooted in who you are, what you're here to create, and how to move forward.

The vision you've been carrying starts to feel like yours to actually build. Your passion projects the ones that have been longing for your full presence and conviction — find a clear path forward.

You move toward them with a steadiness that comes online as your essence moves through you more consistently.

Your purpose feels like ground beneath your feet. Your creativity moves freely. Your life force flows in the direction it was always meant to go.

Who This Is For

This is for you if you have done the inner work. If you have walked through ceremonies, practices, and awakenings. If you know the talk and are ready to walk it.

Ready to step fully into the embodiment of your essence and purpose. Ready to confront and clear the deep-rooted imprints that have kept you from owning your full potential and living what you know to be true.

About Tom Æon

Hi, my name is Tom.

I know what it feels like to have this burning potential inside of you — to know there is something greater calling you forward, but not have the guidance, tools, or real understanding of how to access it and move from it.

For years, I followed the script of what was supposed to bring fulfillment. I built the career. I did the things that made sense. I followed the path that was supposed to work.

But the meaning never arrived. The fulfillment never really landed.

And then life confronted me with something I could not ignore. Someone very close to me was going through a deeply painful time, and I found myself face-to-face with the reality of how much suffering people can carry when they feel disconnected, lost, and unable to find their way.

Something in me broke open.

I remember thinking: what am I doing with my life? How can I go back after this?

That moment changed something. I could no longer keep pretending that success from the outside, following that script that was written for me was enough. I had to take matters into my own hands. I had to start my own search and find the path that truly called me.

So, I devoted the last four years to this journey: understanding how to live in purpose, from purpose, and in devotion to the potential I could feel inside of me.

That led me to invest tens of thousands of euros into advanced trainings from Kundalini Yoga, breathwork facilitation, tantra, energy medicine, Reiki, bodywork, to other transformational modalities that helped me understand the many layers of who we are.

Every path gave me something. Breakthroughs. Insights. Revelations. Deep understandings. Skills I now use in my life and in the spaces I hold.

And yet the big promise was never delivered.

The liberation from those reoccurring patterns that kept me looping and pulling me back, it never truly came through. What I was left with was a highly refined awareness of what was limiting me, more conscious more grounded yet still inside the same limiting-patterns. without the ability to fully break free from them.

It was only after several initiatory experiences in Luxor, Egypt, that I was blessed with the clarity and total understanding of what true transformation actually requires and where it needs to go, beyond what other modalities have never taken me

That is when The Essence Way was born.

A path that brings everything together and meets the places other work leaves untouched — so you can meet the totality of who you are, clear what is not yours, and finally move from the deeper truth that already lives within you.

Because purpose is not a destination. It is an energy that moves through you every time you act from essence. That knowing. That pull. That part of you that has never stopped calling you forward. It has always been there. It has just been covered by distortions, imprints, and old programming that were never truly yours.

My friend, I am deeply excited to invite you into this unravelling and into the rise of your power, purpose, and truth.

Are you ready?

*"You are here for a specific purpose.
And in any moment you choose to move from your Essence that purpose is allowed to come through."*

Those Who Came Before You

The Experience

Format — Private, in-person, day and a half ceremonial container

Duration — Arrival the evening before, full day of work, overnight on the land, final integration the morning after

Medicines — Santa Maria, Cacao, and Rapé

Location — Santa Clara, Alentejo

Ongoing support — Included in the days following the experience to support what continues to integrate and move

The Investment

The founding rate of €333 exists because this is the first time this experience is being offered in this form. You receive the full depth of the work — the ceremonial space, the energy medicine, the land, and the ongoing support — at the most accessible investment this experience will ever be offered at. After this founding round, the investment moves to €555 and beyond.

Founding rate: €333

Future investment: €555+

→ Apply for your Alignment Call

Bonusses

The Essence Way Integration Guide

A living guide to move from your essence in everyday life the core practices, reflection prompts, and tools to help you stay connected to what shifted and continue deepening the work in your own time.

One Week of Integration Support

In the week following the experience you receive direct support to help ground what has shifted, navigate what continues to move, and stay close to the clarity that opened during the day and a half so the experience continues to deepen after you leave the land.

The Next Step

This experience begins with an Alignment Call a genuine conversation to feel whether this is the right moment, the right container, and the right fit for where you are right now.

If you can feel the call, you can trust it.

→ Apply for your Alignment Call